This rib feels comfortable and sturdy, giving you a feeling of comfort and control when using as a throwing tool.

An essential tool for every potter

Our boxwood ribs come in a variety of shapes, giving you the most versatility for shaping the curves and edges of your pottery projects whether they are large or small. This particular long boxwood rib is useful for working with larger amounts of clay - on the wheel you can use it to create a long, tall and straight profile for a cylinder, or push out your clay to form a wide, tapered bowl. It's also useful as a paddle to shape and smooth hand built pieces.
